

Title: Consultant - Refining

Location: Dallas, TX

Qualifications

The ideal candidate will have 7 to 10 years of direct experience in the refining sector with experience in unit operations and planning and will hold an undergraduate degree in Engineering (Chemical Engineering preferred). A graduate degree in Engineering and/or MBA are beneficial. Background would ideally include experience in refinery economics and planning, refinery operations, and technical services. The successful candidate must be an excellent communicator, equally proficient and experienced with the development and presentation of both oral and written analyses results, as well as Microsoft Word, Excel and Powerpoint. In addition, the successful candidate will have demonstrated expertise with optimization and financial models; will exhibit excellent collaborative and organizational skills; and must be self-directed with a strong entrepreneurial mind-set. Candidates must currently be able to work in the United States without sponsorship and have no restrictions with respect to international travel.

Representative Assignments:

Consultants are expected to be proficient in a number of different areas; however specific assignments are typically staffed by a team of professionals drawing on specific individual expertise to complete analyses required by the client. Such assignments may include the following:

- Crude oil and feedstock analysis/valuation
- Product blending/optimization
- Benchmarking of Key Performance Indicators
- Economics and Planning Support
- LP development and/or maintenance
- Logistics and transportation studies

Clients Served:

Muse provides consulting services to clients located worldwide. Professionals new to consulting are expected to support on-going consulting activities developed by others in the firm and depending on areas of expertise may be asked to lead assignments or portions of assignments from the outset of their employment. Experience consultants joining Muse and those new to consulting who have been with Muse for 2 to 3 years are expected to take on responsibilities for new business generation through relationship management with both new and existing firm clients. Experienced consultants are expected to contribute to growth in the firm's client base by developing and supporting new client relationships. From the time to time, every consultant is expected to participate in marketing efforts of the firm including making client visits to foster business relationships, attending industry functions and meetings, and presenting papers at various industry conferences.